We connect businesses to potential customers via telemarketing. They have access to our targeted databases which span a range of industries and can be broken into regions which also includes 30,000+ farmers broken into dairy, beef, sheep, equine etc. We create sales opportunities for companies with carefully crafted telemarketing scripts and experienced telemarketers. We are business to business focused though and are not 'those guys' that call into private homes while people are relaxed with a glass of wine having dinner and watching the evening news. Sometimes we just sell the data to companies and don't provide the calling – but generally we'll provide both calling and data which together constitutes a campaign. We save businesses time because we can get through 500 records in a week. It then becomes a numbers game – the more we call the more leads we'll get. It's very simple really – a major factor as to why I joined the company. There's something real and powerful in the spoken word when everything around us seems to be so digitised.
